Hello,

I really do not know how to deal with this myself. It's an impossible situation. I'm sending you a copy of this email because I need the help of Don Lemon's independent news media coverage. The Don Lemon Show interview with Elon Musk several years ago is very instructive for getting to grips with Musk's crazy, paranoid and domineering personality complexes. You will recall the subdiscussion in that interview where Don presses on him about victimhood. I also figure, and I hope I'm reading this correctly, that Don may just despise Elon Musk enough to pick this up on one of his podcasts. That's about what it's going to take to get the ball rolling on stopping this madness where powerful men like Trump and Elon Musk (and their male offspring) bully and aggressively try to intimidate women and personalities that they have victimized, or simply just disagree with as a substantial portion of the American (USA, North America, Earth) electorate. What I really need is a good lawyer, but I am not able to get one yet, like say Jean Carroll's accomplished legal team would be nice if I could get an appointment to talk them into the case for 30 minutes. This is complicated by the fact that you cannot just simply call up the Chicago/IL law bar and expect to get a good enough reference to be able to sue someone like this, who disgustingly and unfortunately, is for all intensive purposes untouchable and above the law - especially in the current political environment we are dealing with. At any rate, here we go:

This is really something that you should watch for yourself and take in context with the increasing aggression towards me by these men over the last few weeks. Also in the context of me getting setup to meet with a manipulative, so-called career coach pushed on LinkedIn by Elon and X Musk. Last week was a big misleading setup focused on spiritual guidance (Neptune-Pieces-12) and how to make immediate income after failed full time job searches. They threaten me here in no uncertain way that I should stop talking about the sexual abuse and assaults by these men in such a way that I identify as being a victim:

Thinking over this and some unforgettable other aggressive interactions related to all this that came to a head this week, I decided to write to my sister and the hacker friends who support me as follows. Surely, you can offer some good advice or commentary or feedback under the circumstances.

Hoping this all gets better, or someone shoots them in the balls so they will bleed to death from it and finally fuck off and leave me the hell alone,

SUBJECT: Something I never told mom

MESSAGE (BELOW):

I have been thinking a lot more than usual this week. Some crazy things have happened related to Trump and Elon Musk. They play nasty games. This leads to reflection on something I, in hindsight, realize I never told Mama.

In 2015, I was sexually assaulted by McDonald and another man (X Musk/Anthony Reco Wright). I ended up seeking treatment at Baptist Hospital for a syphilis infection following the rapes. Mama drove me over to the hospital. I gave her the pin to my phone, the phone and my drivers license in the waiting room before getting examined. I wanted a rape kit done this time. The ER staff were friends of McDonald's, very hostile and refused to do it before a psych eval. An African American Pensacola police officer ended up in the room. I had to scream at him to see if he would take the rape kit before he forced the ER nurse to do it. Right afterwards, they sedated me. When I woke up, I was in the morgue at Baptist hospital with three violent nazi nurses holing and flicking a large syringe of brown fluid (heroin - enough to cause a lethal overdose). Some black nurses were waiting for me with a wheel chair outside the room. I remember them laughing at these heinous creeps (they've probably seen them do worse) because McDonald is going to prison with the rape kit if they inject me with it. With my PhD mother in the waiting room holding my phone/email/password and ID, this is how McDonald and little Anthony/X communicated they wanted their friends/contacts to handle me reporting the rapes: Just another overdose - into a bodybag with my mom in the lobby - just another overdose they think without hesitation.

They locked me up for 10 days without any prior medical or psychiatric records after that. When I told them that I was a PhD student and had a masters degree, they called mom to report delusions in my head - saying I was working caluclus problems on paper and believed I was a mathematician. She then visited to play cards with me, give me a roll of quarters for snacks and wanted to know what she's going to have to buy me to not be so pissed off when I come back to her house. A new laptop? Yeah, I suppose I could use one, but I'm still going to be pretty fucking pissed.

I recently received a personal invite to attend the opening of a new Chicago Public Library location at the Obama Presidential Center in Chicago (massive complex, under construction for years). It opens on Juneteenth (6/19/26), three years to the day after Trump came near me in Chicago to make petty comments about having to work parttime as an insurance salesman to make ends meet (a definite fuck you to Obama for reasons we haven't talked about yet). I forwarded Trump's middle finger at me to Barack several months ago waiting at a Walgreens pharmacy in his home neighborhood of Hyde Park. My hacker friends dropped me off on Obama's door step expecting him to give a damn... I thought to write you (B) mulling over what Michelle would do in the same situation in Northern Florida (Trump/fascist country) if they held her without bail and said she had paranoid and crazy delusions in her head for reporting graduating near the top of her class at Harvard Law. In Florida, they might have deprived her access to any contacts and held her there under sedation against her will forever. This is a problem! That and Elon Musk's interpretation of victimology (ask later).

Do you understand what I just wrote? Read it again. Three times even. I have crazy in my life that refuses to just die. Just another overdose. That's where I should have been at age 30, in Florida, because these men raped me. Kind of fucked up right? Just another ovrdose, lucky, I suppose to still be here able to tell the story. Just another overdose.

My hacker friends are carbon copied on the email. Just so you know who I talk to most of the time about these things,

Sincerely, your sister,

Don,

This should piss you off. If you don't like my tact or angles or opinionated reaction to the insane circumstances, I don't want to hear it. Enjoy!

To: maxieds@gmail.com

Thank you for writing the Chicago Tribune opinion team. Because of the number of letters we receive, we can't respond to everyone individually. Please look at our guidance below. If your letter fails to comply with our criteria, it may not be considered.

Before sending us a letter, be sure to type your letter in the body of the email. Do not attach it as a document.

Please note:

- Letters must be NO MORE than 400 words.
- Provide us with your full name. (We will not publish letters anonymously or with only first names.) Also provide your contact information — include your city and state, as well as your phone number for verification purposes. If your letter is chosen, your city/town will be printed with your name. All other contact information will remain private.
- No more than four signatures will be printed with a letter.

We are looking for:

- Timely responses to current events and Tribune content.
- Thoughtful criticisms of elected officials.
- Both serious and whimsical observations of our local communities, our state, our nation and human nature in general.
- Personal stories that will resonate with readers.
- Pieces that sincerely advocate for legislation or a cause.

We are not looking for:

- Open letters to elected officials and other people.
- Self-serving advocacy or promotional pieces.
- Ax-grinding rants.
- Poems.

 In order to give space to as many voices as possible, we often restrict repeat submitters to one letter a month.

We prefer to edit and/or trim letters as little as possible, but we reserve the full right to do so. Thank you again for reaching out to us.
